

Staff Singers positions open at St. Luke's

St. Luke's is looking for skilled singers to augment the adult choir on a weekly basis during the regular fall and spring seasons. This usually includes a Wednesday evening rehearsal and Sunday morning service, expanded during festival or holiday seasons like Christmas and Easter. Singers also sing Evensongs once a month, which are brief services that are almost entirely sung, and the occasional choral concert.

St. Luke's is a picturesque downtown Episcopal church with a congregation that loves and appreciates church music not only from the Anglican tradition but also from many other styles and genres from ancient to modern to recently composed. Staff Singers help perpetuate this exciting tradition of great church music in a liturgical setting.

All voice parts are needed, soprano, alto, tenor, and bass. The regular commitment for singers is a weekly rehearsal on Wednesdays at 6:45 pm, and Sundays at 9:45 am for rehearsal followed by the service at 10:30 am.

Staff Singers are usually paid $60 per showing, or $120 per week. There are fluctuations depending on the schedule that might include more or less 'showings.'

Interested singers can contact director of music Stephen Williams via email at swilliams@stlukessalisbury.net or by calling the church's office at 704-633-3221 to set up a meeting and/or audition.
